Mr. T. S. Narayana Ayyar.—Sir, the position with regard to the salary of peons is not as stated by the Hon'ble Member for Narakkal. The Hon'ble Member says that as the Secretariat is the head of the executive administration, so the Chief Court is the head of the judicial administration and, therefore, on that analogy there is every necessity to revise the pay of the peons in the Chief Court when the pay of the peons of the Secretariat has been revised. That is not the way in which we should look at this question. The case of peons in similar offices who have got the same grade as the peons of the Chief Court, for instance, the Land Revenue Department and the Education Department, has also to be remembered. This question can be considered only in a general scheme of revision of the pay of all peons of all the departments which are on the same basis. A separate revision for the Chief Court alone is not possible.
